Theme: Celebrating God's Abundance

1 Tim 1:14 NLT

Oh, how generous and gracious our Lord was! He filled me with the faith and love that come from Christ Jesus.

"Show me how to be gracious and generous today."

Have you ever watched a squirrel prepare for winter? It gathers and hides acorns with great urgency, as if there will never be another oak tree or another season of provision. What looks like preparation can quickly begin to look like striving, clutching, and fear.

Sometimes we do the same. We stock our shelves, fill our calendars, collect information, and try to prepare for every possible scenario. Spiritually, we may even try to store up enough good works, knowledge, or effort to make ourselves feel secure before God. But God does not ask us to live from a place of fear or scarcity. He invites us to receive His grace one day at a time.

God's provision is perfect, generous, and enough for today. Matthew 6:11 teaches us to ask, "Give us today the food we need." Not tomorrow's supply. Not a month's worth of reassurance. Just today. When we trust God's abundance, we are free to be gracious and generous with others because we know our Father will continue to meet every need through Christ Jesus.

Share:

- Where do you most often feel tempted to live from scarcity rather than trust in God's abundance?
- Share a time when God provided exactly what you needed in a particular situation or season?
- How does 1 Timothy 1:14 describe the generosity and grace of Jesus?
- How would you explain God's abundance to someone that doesn't have a relationship with Him?
- What would it look like to practice generosity today because you trust God to provide for tomorrow?

Prayer: Heavenly Father, thank you for your generous grace and for the faith and love that come through Jesus Christ. Forgive us when we live as though there will not be enough, and teach us to trust your daily provision. Open our eyes to the abundance of your mercy, and make us gracious and generous toward the people around us. Help us celebrate the ways you meet our needs and share your goodness with confidence and joy. Amen.
